Local and General

Mrs. C. Oldacre nee McFadyen left on Saturday last for her home in Coronation after a week's visit to her parents.

Jack Wilson, who has been in charge of Government road grading north of Calgary, arrived home on Saturday last.

D. J. McKay was in Calgary on Tuesday on a business trip.

Clarence Marston who is at present working in Calgary was home for Labour Day.

Call at the Chronicle Office and have a look through our Specimen Book of Private Greeting Cards.

The Alberta Hotel is receiving a fresh coat of paint inside and out. This will be a decided improvement to this up-to-date hotel.

See McRory and Sons for your wants in shellfish.

Two days of rainy weather put a stop to harvesting operations, but fortunately there was not much wind with the rain and no material damage was done to standing grain.

Sherwin-Williams Paint covers most, looks best and wears longest. Lauts sell it.

T. Vandelinder, of Calgary, left on Tuesday afternoon for home after spending a few days at his farms west of town.

The Rev. P. Halstead, of Irricana, occupied the pulpit last Sunday evening, at the Union Church, and gave an instructive and interesting address on his experiences as a missionary in South Africa. Miss Guesner assisted the choir and as a solo sang "Lead Kindly Light," which was much appreciated by the congregation.

Without doubt the ladies fine shoes newly opened at Wm. Urquhart's are the nicest lines ever shown in this district.

Bert Dryden, who has been in charge of the electric light plant for the past two months, has accepted a position with G. A. C. Dougan, and is leaving at once for his new work. Leslie McKay is now in charge of the plant.

If you require to renew your old Loan or take out a new one call and see me, as I can save you money. I represent the N. of Scotland Can. Mortgage Co., The Canada Life, and others. CHAS. HULTGREN.

We understand that in next week's issue of this paper the School Board will take the first step according to law to collect all arrears of School taxes by publishing the names of all those in arrears, together with the amount owing, and as soon as they have given the necessary notice they will proceed to offer for sale the land and chattels to satisfy the claim of the School District against the respective parcels.

What could be nicer than to send a private Greeting Card to your friends and relations for Christmas. Call at the Chronicle Office and see our specimens.

Labour Day around Crossfield was very quiet, the only thing to tell it was a holiday being the fact that the stores were closed. There were a few visitors from Calgary on the chance of shooting a few ducks, but we were not able to see any result of their efforts. The local sports must either have shot or scared them all.

London-Scotland Express
Telescoped near Carlisle.

Fifteen persons were killed and thirty injured in a collision of two sections of the famous London Scotch express early on Tuesday morning. The wreck occurred on the Midland railway near Hawes Junction, the two sections were south bound. The second section dashed into the rear of the first, telescoping several coaches which burst into flames.

Many persons were trapped, and, if not killed outright, were burned to death. At least 30 passengers were taken from the wreckage suffering from injuries and burns, and as many as ten of these may die.

The two trains left Carlisle for London at 1.35 and 1.47 on Tuesday morning respectively, and the collision between them occurred 50 miles south of that place on a high and lonely moor.

The first section of the train had stopped to get up steam for a sharp up grade when the section dashed into the rear, piling up the sleeping cars which were crowded with passengers.

Almost immediately afterwards several of the cars caught fire, and many of the passengers found it impossible to get out. Rescuers from farms in the vicinity got to the scene too late to save any of the passengers.

APPEAL TO FARMERS

Toronto Globe Points Out Great Opening for Them in Canadian Market

Under the heading "A Challenge to the Farmers," the Toronto Globe says editorially:

"New Zealand now supplies butter to the Canadian market. According to a despatch from the Canadian Trade Commissioner in New Zealand, 71,062 boxes of butter were shipped to Vancouver from Auckland during the fiscal year 1913-14. Cold-storage companies from several points in Canada, it is said, are endeavoring to get in touch with New Zealand shippers, so the imports of this commodity will go on increasing until Canadian farmers in the West wake up to the possibilities of the home market. With a rapidly-increasing population and constantly-expanding industries, it seems extraordinary that, in a land so richly endowed by nature with the means of supplying food to the consumer, Canadians should have to go so far afield as New Zealand for dairy products. Canada should be able to supply all the butter and other produce required were the soil put to its natural use and the principle of mixed farming more generally adopted. Ontario alone is capable of supplying all the wants of Canada in this department were farming conducted on strict business principles, not only in regard to production, but also to marketing. Mixed farming, co-operation, and improved transport facilities would go a long way to hold the Canadian market for the farmer. . . . The milking of the prairie lands by wheat-growers to the practical exclusion of mixed farming, and the importation of food-stuffs into a country so rich in soil and climate, are unhealthy symptoms which all concerned in the welfare of their country must deplore. The agricultural and manufacturing industries are complementary the one to the other in any well-balanced scheme of national economy, and each has its place to fill in supplying the needs of the people and in contributing to their moral and material welfare."

PULP AND PAPER

An Industry Which Has Grown Rapidly in Canada

According to the Toronto Globe, up to three or four years ago the pulp and paper industry of Quebec received little attention from the business world. Previous to that time all the big mills on the continent were located south of the border, and the smaller Canadian mills operating in a less remunerative field, were unable to make much headway. Careless methods of cutting and the heavy demands made upon the American forests practically exhausted their available supplies of pulpwood and they turned to Canada. For years American millowners were allowed to take pulpwood from Quebec without let or hindrance. Some two or three years ago Sir Lomer Gouin put into force a measure prohibiting the exportation of pulpwood cut from Crown lands, which proved to be the beginning of the wonderful expansion of this industry. American manufacturers, knowing that they could not get pulpwood from Quebec crossed the border, bought up limits and located their mills on this side of the line. In one year following the passing of the measure no less than nineteen pulp, paper and lumber companies were incorporated in Quebec, with a total capitalization of $41,769,000. This capital came largely from the United States, Great Britain and France, although Canadians contributed a considerable amount. Last year several of the newly-incorporated mills commenced production, while during 1913 a large number of others will commence active manufacturing. Of 1,846,910 cords of pulpwood cut in Canada during the past year, 866,042 cords were manufactured into pulp in Canadian mills, while 880,866 cords were exported to the rest of the manufactured state. The total cut for 1912 showed an increase of 31 1/2 per cent. over the figures for 1911, while the increase in the manufacture of pulpwood in Canada amounted to nearly 39 per cent. as compared with an increase in our exports of raw pulpwood of less than 12 per cent.

The importance of the pulp and paper industry to this country is shown by the fact that there are now 85 pulp and paper mills in Canada and Newfoundland, of which 32 are located in Canada.

Fire! Fire!! Fire!!!

We have from time to time through the medium of our columns tried to revive the interest of the townspeople and the district in the various institutions of the town, and particularly in respect to the Fire Brigade, which to our mind is the most important, but up to the present time our efforts have not been marked with any marked degree of success. The time will come, as it has to other towns of Alberta, when an efficient Brigade will be of untold value, and when that time arrives we do not want to be in a position to say "We told you so." Let us get together and have an old time Revival Meeting with the object of converting our back-sliding Brigade into an up to the scratch worker.

NOTICE.—The Next Regular Meeting is Postponed till the 23rd September.

Sheep and Weeds.

One good way of keeping weeds in check is to keep sheep. If upon every 100 acre farm a dozen sheep were kept, there would be fewer weeds. Yet many farmers fight shy of keeping sheep. They would certainly be worth while if for no other reason than to keep down weeds in pastures and fence corners. And just here we might add that one of the chief sources of weed infection in this country is neglected fence corners. They are breeding grounds, too, for many insect pests. Of late the fence corners are generally neglected and allowed to grow up with all kinds of rubbish, becoming an eyesore, and a place for harboring vermin of all kinds. If farmers are not able to keep the fence corners clean by cutting, the next best thing to do is to secure a few sheep and give them a chance to do the work. They will more than pay for their keep if given the chance. Sheep are profitable to keep in any case, and farmers would be better off if they kept more of them. It is no doubt true that some farms are better adapted for sheep raising than others. At the same time it should be possible to keep a few sheep on every farm. Most farmers keep cattle and hogs of some description. Sheep should be included also, and many farms would be free of weeds than they are to-day in a short time if sheep were kept. Of all the animals kept on a farm sheep are the greatest weed scavengers among them. And in these days of rapid weed growth it should not need very strong argument to induce farmers to keep more sheep. If the wool clip is properly handled and the lambs well looked after the flock will give a good account of itself at the end of the year.

Two express trains collide on the New Haven railway early in the morning on Sept. 2nd. Thirteen persons were killed outright and nearly 100 injured. Both trains were heavily laden with returning excursionists from fashionable resorts in Maine and the White Mountains.

A French aviator named Pegoud caused a sensation on Monday at Juvisy, France, by dropping safely from an aeroplane with a parachute. It was also announced that he intended to turn a somersault in the air with his aeroplane. After reaching a height of about 3,000 feet he turned the nose of his machine straight towards the earth and darted downwards with his motor working at full power. Plunging about 1,300 feet with frightful velocity, changing the position of his rudder and making a complete vertical circle. The machine then glided down in a high spiral volplane and alighted gently on the ground.

Four auto racers were killed in a crash at Nashville, Tenn., state fair on Labour Day. Automobile races resulted in the doing to death of four of the dare-devil racers and two more receiving injuries, while four escaped.

Two of the cars with their drivers flashed through the mass of tangled wreckage of the broken cars and maimed bodies at a speed of 60 miles an hour escaping injury. Four people had a narrow escape from death or serious injury, when the engine of a motor car in which they were driving, stopped dead near the crest of a very steep hill on the Cloverleaf road, Edmonton, and ran backwards, dashed over the edge of a cliff, plunging 70 feet. The driver Arthur Plante, his wife and her mother, and a friend, all of whom had recently left Ottawa for Edmonton were the occupants of the car. When the car stopped it ran back so quickly that Mr. Plante had no time to apply the emergency brake, but checked the car with the foot brake. He stuck to the steering gear and kept the car going straight. In its descent down the embankment the car uprooted a big tree and cut another in two, broke through a fence and came to a stand on its end in a brook. All escaped without serious injury.
